Financial Incentives for Historic Buildings

Crown Heights North, Brooklyn

There are a number of financial incentives and support available to help purchase, maintain and restore historic properties. City, state and national preservation offices and commissions as well as non-profit organizations offer grants, low-interest loans and tax incentives to property owners to restore or rehabilitate their buildings. Generally, to qualify buildings must be listed as individual landmarks, as part of an historic district of New York City, or on the New York State or National Register of Historic Places. This brochure provides an overview of the variety and sources of this assistance. ## The New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission

• Funding for Restoration and Repair in Low-Income Households

The New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission administers the Historic Preservation Grant Program, which provides $10,000 to $15,000 to help owners restore their homes. This grant covers exterior repairs, primarily of the street façade including masonry rebuilding and mortar repointing, replacement of windows and front doors and cornice restoration. In order to qualify the home must be a designated or proposed New York City landmark, part of a designated historic district, or listed or eligible for listing on the National Register of Historic Places. Additionally, owners or their tenants must meet federal guidelines for low- and moderate-income households. If you receive a grant you must occupy the home for at least five years after the work is completed; if you sell or move out of the building before that time you will be required to return the grant funds on a pro-rated basis.

• Resources for Nonprofits

The Historic Preservation Grant Program for Nonprofits offers grants of up to $25,000 for nonprofits that own or occupy designated individual or interior New York City landmarks, buildings that are part of an historic district, or listed or eligible for listing on the National Register of Historic Places. Funds can be used for repairs of the exterior of the building, primarily of the street façade and landmark designated interiors. To qualify the organization must be a charitable, scientific, literary, educational or other entity under Section 501 (c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Federal Historic Preservation Tax Incentive Program

- Charitable Donation of Property

The Federal Historic Preservation Tax Incentive Program allows an owner of an historic property to donate an historic preservation easement on the exterior of the property to a qualified easement-holding organization, and as a result of this donation, claim a tax deduction for the appraised value of the easement.

Ambassador Apartments, Staten Island

An historic preservation easement is a legal agreement to protect in perpetuity a building's historic exterior. Internal Revenue Tax Code Section 170(h) outlines the specific requirements for a donor to be eligible for a tax deduction for an historic preservation easement donation. Property owners should consult their legal and/or tax advisors to understand the benefits and implications of an easement donation.

More information about easement donations can be found here savingplaces.org. To find qualified organizations that are accepting easements, contact the National Trust for Historic Preservation Northeast Regional Office at (202)588-6000 or, info@savingplaces.org. ## The New York City Department of Housing Preservation and Development

• Tax Relief for Rehabilitation

The J-51 Program provides tax benefits in the form of a tax exemption and/or a tax abatement to owners for the significant renovation of residential buildings or the conversion of a property into a residential building. To qualify the work must include significant repairs to the street facing façade and be approved by the Landmarks Preservation Commission. The tax exemption benefit relieves owners from paying increases on the assessed value of the property as a result of the completed work. A tax abatement reduces the current tax liability by a percentage of the cost of the repairs. For more information please visit nyc.gov/site/hpd/index.page and see the section for developers. Click on the tax incentives link to find out more about the J-51 Program.

The New York City Department of Housing Preservation and Development also offers other types of financial assistance including low-interest loans to help renovate and restore residential buildings, whether or not the building is designated as historic. Visit nyc.gov/site/hpd/index.page and see the section for homeowners for more information.

About the Historic Districts Council

The Historic Districts Council is the citywide advocate for New York's historic neighborhoods. We work to ensure the preservation of significant historic neighborhoods, buildings and public spaces in New York City, uphold the integrity of the New York City Landmarks Law and further the preservation ethic. This mission is accomplished through ongoing programs of assistance to more than 500 community and neighborhood groups and through public-policy initiatives, publications, educational outreach and sponsorship of community events.

Originally founded in 1971 as a coalition of community groups from New York City's designated historic districts, HDC has grown to become one of the foremost citywide voices for historic preservation. Following its mandate of community-based preservation advocacy, HDC works continuously to broaden and educate the preservation constituency — from producing zoning and architectural surveys of unprotected historic neighborhoods, to meeting with legislators and government officials, to creating educational programs on the techniques and strategies of neighborhood preservation.

The core belief of the Historic Districts Council is that preservation and enhancement of New York City's historic resources — its neighborhoods, buildings, parks and public spaces — are central to the continued success of the city. The creation of the New York City Landmarks Law in 1965 acknowledged this and empowered the government to act to preserve buildings and sites that “possess special character or special historical or aesthetic interest or value as part of the development, heritage or cultural characteristics of city, state or nation.” This preservation goal benefits not only ourselves but future generations of New Yorkers, and it guides the Historic Districts Council in all its actions.

More information is available in HDC's signature publication, Creating an Historic District: A Guide for Neighborhoods, available on HDC's Web site, hdc.org or by calling (212) 614-9107.

This publication was made possible through generous donors to HDC's Neighborhood Partners Program including New York State Assembly Members Deborah J. Glick, Richard N. Gottfried, Daniel J. O'Donnell and New York State Senators Liz Krueger, Bill Perkins and Diane J. Savino.
